Abstract

The Friends of Franklin, Inc. (FOF) is an international membership society for individuals interested in promoting the study and scholarship of Benjamin Franklin. In the early 1990s, FOF began compiling a then-current genealogy of Franklin's descendants. This "Descendants Project," which was led by Elly Fitzig, eventually identified over 1500 direct descendants.

This collection contains a discrete set of records collected by the organization and Fitzig dating from about 1992 to 2001. During the project, several FOF members, including Franklin Bache Satterthwaite and Larry Tise, sent out letters to people identified as Franklin's descendants. Many people responded by sending letters with genealogical information linking them to Franklin, as well as copies of family documents proving their connections. These files from respondents, organized alphabetically by last name, comprise the first half the collection.

The latter half of the collection contains copies of older versions of Franklin's genealogy, including a copy of the chapter on Franklin from The Genealogical Register of the Descendants of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence. There are also historical records pertaining to the Bache-Lott-Birt family, recent obituaries and biographies of some of Franklin descendants, and a copy of the American Philosophical Society's guide to the Bache papers in the Castle collection, as well as miscellaneous family trees and correspondence.

HSP has an internal copy of the Franklin family tree that resulted from this project. At over 200 pages, it is far too large to print; however, researchers may view the family tree upon request. An abbreviated genealogical report based on this family tree is included in this guide starting on page 4.
