

What Ads Tell Us

This lesson is intended to set the stage for student analysis of historical advertising. In order to view these documents in a critical light, students must understand the purpose of advertising and some of the techniques advertisers use to reach their intended audiences.
